The American Society of Plant Taxonomists (ASPT) through its publications Systematic Botany and Systematic Botany Monographs collects information on authors and reviewers in the form of final degree, phone numbers, e-mail address, mailing address, etc. that users provide when registering on Editorial Manager. ASPT does not share these data with anyone outside of the Editorial Board and the Editorial Board's access to these data is only for the purpose of contacting authors or reviewers. ASPT does not collect information on users other than what is voluntarily provided. Information on the status of submitted manuscripts is only available to the Editor-in-Chief and is not shared except when a manuscript is finally accepted. Other information that authors share on the cover page of submitted manuscripts, such as work address and e-mail address are publicly available to reviewers and to all who have access to the journal when a manuscript is published. Reviewer identity is kept confidential to the editors unless reviewers explicitly state they do not wish to remain anonymous.